Members of a group of Canyon residents protesting the construction of a new post office get a guided tour of the present facility by postmaster Lee Roy Moreland.

Postal tour group still unconvinced of need

A group of Canyon residents protesting the construction of a new post office on Block 43 between Fourth and Fifth Avenues toured the present post office Thursday and came away unconvinced that a new facility is needed.

"He needs more personnel, not more space," said Mrs. Mary Parker after the tour. "If he (Postmaster Lee Roy Moreland) had more people, the mail wouldn't stack up. A second window would be open more and would take care of it. He needs more people. He's short-handed."

Moreland showed the group headed by Jim Palmer around the post office. Also on the tour were Dick Lee, Dr. Irby Carruth, Jack Hughes, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Grace Knighton.

The present post office, built during the Depression, is too cramped to even meet health and safety regulations, Moreland said.

The vault for employee credit deposits and stamps will not hold enough fireproof safes, Moreland said. Another safe is needed.

The central mark up area, where changes of address are processed, should contain 240 square feet, he said. Canyon's area is only 60 square feet.

Additional area is needed for parcel post and unloading mail, he said. The area in which second and third class mail is sorted should have 190 square feet instead of the 100 square feet the Canyon building contains.

There are only 68 square feet for processing first class mail, Moreland said, and 240 feet are needed. For parcel post distribution, 580 square feet are required and only 50 square feet are available in the present post office.

Moreland estimated that 100 additional lock boxes are needed. There is a waiting list for full drawers, he said.

The post office now has 765 rental boxes, including a temporary mobile unit in the lobby. There are 84 empty boxes now, Palmer noted.

The city carriers sort the mail for their routes in a small room that was once the employees' lunch room. Now, the postal employees can eat lunch downstairs in a smaller locker room.

An unfinished portion of the basement is unfinished. An area 40 by 60 feet is used to store postal vehicle tires but would not be suitable to convert into usable space, Moreland said.

Engineers have looked at that area before, he said, with an eye to utilization but have concluded that the expense would not be justified.

Numberous concrete pillars support the structure and the area has only a dirt floor.

Moreland said that to use the space for mail sorting, an observation gallery must be built for postal inspectors. The building also lacks a ramp entrance for the handicapped, a must in public buildings.

"The government could spend half of what it costs to build a new building to spend down here to make this building acceptable," Palmer said.

"This is our building. We our forefathers paid for this building. I am drastically opposed to setting up a new facility for our children to pay for," Palmer said.

Moreland told the group that the new facility will be three times as large as the present one. But, he said, it is unlikely that any more employees will be assigned to staff it.

Strict guideline study required for controversial county post

County commissioners are reported to be working this weekend on a job description for an administrative assistant, a newly-created position which former News editor Carroll Wilson is expected to fill.

The appointment ran into snafu last week when District Attorney Randall Sherrod advised the court that specific specifications for the duties of the job should be formulated. The creation of the position is legal however, Sherrod told the court. (See related story DA advises).

But Sherrod has not ruled out the possibility that he may investigate the manner in which the job was created as a possible violation of the state open meetings law.

"It has been brought to my attention that a possible violation of the open meetings law may have occurred," Sherrod said Friday. "I haven't started investigation but I am not ruling out an investigation."

Sherrod is unhappy not only with the manner of creation, but also with the way the job was filled and the salary, reported to be $13,200 a year plus an automobile. "I think the deal was cut somewhere besides in an open meeting and somewhere other than in executive session," he said.

A Surprise

The position came as a surprise to Sherrod, who learned of the creation after a newspaper broke the story last Sunday.

"I was never approached by a commissioner as to the legality of the position," Sherrod said. On his own initiative, he looked into the legal requirements, he said. Commissioners are somewhat hazy as to how the job came about.

"The commissioners were discussing it and that's how I heard about it," County Judge Woody Pond said. "They discussed it for a number of months. I don't think it was discussed by the whole court. We discussed some things in executive session that will come out at the proper time," he said.

Judge Pond said he thought an administrative assistant, or a county coordinator, was a progressive step that would help keep such things as personnel policy under control.

"I want it understood that he's not my assistant," Pond said.

Commissioner John Fulgenzi was unable to say just when the idea for the job originated.

It was during the period earlier this spring when commissioners were seeking a replacement for County Auditor Betty Hodges and appraiser John Carrington, he said.

"The whole thing just blew up in our faces. We were looking for someone to fill Mrs. Hodges job and then Carrington quit. Maybe someone just suggested we get a county coordinator," Fulgenzi said.

Idea Grew

The idea for the position grew informally he said.

"It just happened. It would drift in and out of conversation. What's happened is a growing pain sort of thing. The county is really not big enough for full time commissioners but at the same time the complexity of the office is such that it is too much for part time commissioners," Fulgenzi said.

Commissioners Dee Griffin, Paul Lindsey and Jim Fletcher could not be reached Friday for comment.

Wilson created the job in the first place, Sherrod accused.

"He was on the grand jury that wrote the report critical of the lack of control over spending. He wrote editorials on it. He'd con-

Huge plant is planned

One of the nation's industrial giants apparently has finalized plans to build a multi-million dollar plant in the Canyon community next year.

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation of Toledo, Ohio says it will begin construction next June northeast of Canyon on a plant which reportedly will cost $26 million and initially employ 500 people.

Texas Industrial Commission in a plant-impact survey estimates the facility will result in 1,045 new jobs for the area.

W.W. Zaugg of Owens-Corning tax administration in a letter dated July 6, 1976 told Randall County Tax Assessor Audrey Bruse: "I have learned that construction will probably begin in June, 1977, with anticipated start-up January, 1979."

The sprawling plant will have 500,000 feet of floor space.

Owens-Corning purchased 259 acres along the Santa Fe Railroad west of Washington Street and south of Hollywood Road as a plant site.

The plant will produce fiberglas products. Texas Industrial Commission's survey estimates it will turn out some $28.7 million worth of products.

Impact on the tax structure of the area will be dramatic. The survey also indicated the plant will generate $1.7 in federal taxes, $109,000 in state taxes and $151,601 locally.

Owens-Corning has two other plants in Texas. One in Waxahachie produces insulation materials and employs 550 people. A plant in Conroe produces fiberglas reinforced storage tanks and employs 200.

Judge says -

County helper eases the load

No busy county should be without an administrative assistant to expedite paperwork, the county judge of urban Dallas County said this week.

Judge John Whittington said his county had had administrative assistants for years to serve both the commissioners court and the county judge.

"No busy county should be without one," he said. "A county that isn't very busy can get by and the district clerk can handle his functions."

Dallas County's administrative assistant Bill Melton has held his position for the past four years, Whittington said.

The administrative assistant serves as an expeditor and coordinator to implement county programs.

"As you know, five people have trouble with continuity," he said. "Sometimes the commissioners get up and talk about something one week and get up the next week and talk about the same thing and nothing will have been done on it since the week before."

"The assistant picks up on the design of the commissioners to move the work along during the week," Whittington said.

Canyon dwellers

Rims view spectacular

The view from her kitchen window is spectacular and from her backyard she can occasionally spot aoudads grazing a hundred or more feet below in the canyon.

Patty and Ross Hartnett live in one of the three stone houses perched on the rim of Palo Duro Canyon.

They have lived there since October, moving here from Ft. Davis, Texas. Hartnett is a superintendent 1 at the state park.

The Hartnetts' cabin is larger than the two on either side. From the canyon road, only the roofs of the cabins are visible. Signs identifying the homes as private residents are often ignored by park visitors looking for a better place to snap a photograph.

Mrs. Hartnett said she usually doesn't object to tourists who just walk beside her fence to the canyon rim.

"If they just look like they're going to take a picture I usually don't say anything," she said.

She and her husband are rarely bothered by tourists, she said, because their yard is fenced. Their neighbor, John Cummins, said, trespassers are a big problem. "They like to walk on our roofs," he said.

The Hartnetts' home is reached by steep, concrete stairs leading to a ledge slightly below the rim. Their house is built only a few feet from a severe drop-off to the canyon floor below. A board fence along the edge provides safety and a small, grassy area beside the house gives the Hartnetts' shaggy sheepdog, Sebastian, a place to romp.

Inside the cabin are three large rooms and a laundry area. Some of the inside walls are formed by the rough stone used for the exterior. Television antennas contrast with the rustic appearance of the cabins.

Television helps relieve the isolation on the canyon rim. The small house requires little upkeep to fill her days, Mrs. Hartnett said. (See RIM, page 5)

Taxable funding to meet spenditure

Randall County's governing body is contemplating spending more than $250,000 on re-evaluating taxable property in the county and lame duck Commissioner Paul Lindsey is unhappy about it.

Lindsey contends that placing a value on taxable property in the county is the duty of Audrey Bruse, tax assessor-collector.

Mrs. Bruse says her office can't do it because she is unable to hire people qualified in that field.

Anyway, Mrs. Bruse asserts, an in-house appraisal would wind up costing more than hiring an outside firm.

Randall County has never had such an appraisal. Canyon Independent School District hired a firm of professionals in the late 1960s stirring up a tempestuous controversy for several months.

Mrs. Bruse said she has taken several applications from prospective appraisers to work out of her office, but none of them would stand scrutiny.

More visitors to Palo Duro

Visitors are flocking to Palo Duro Canyon this Bicentennial year.

During the first 13 days of July, approximately 95,000 visitors came to the park.

The total for June was 158,344 this year, well ahead of the 92,772 who visited the park in June of 1975.

More people this year are seeing "TEXAS," the musical drama presented nightly at the canyon amphitheater.

So far this year, 32,827 have viewed the pageant, which is "a little over last year," according to "TEXAS" founder, Mrs. Margaret Harper.

"They're having trouble too," she declared when she was asked how professional firms employ qualified people.

Until last May, John Carrington was working in appraisal of rural property at $1,150 a month — $75 more than his boss, Mrs. Bruse draws.

"We spent $42,000 and got only about a tenth of the county appraised," Mrs. Bruse declared. She said Carrington did good work but was very slow on the job.

Lindsey disagrees with the tax assessor's position. He believes the county could save money by having the re-evaluation done out of the tax office.

"My feeling has always been that the responsibility lies with the tax office and commissioners court," said Lindsey who retires as county commissioner Jan. 1.

Lindsey said he believes the different taxing entities should cooperate on tax information. "After all they do serve the same people," he declared.

Mrs. Bruse says her taxing schedules are completely outdated as things now stand. She thinks that if it is left up to her office to get the job done without outside help, the new schedules will be out of date by the time the re-appraisal is finished.

Mrs. Bruse, a Republican, is up for re-election this year and has a Democrat, Bob Burk, running against her. She admits that her position on the re-appraisal may cost her votes in November.

However, she declared, the project could result in lowering county taxes if as a result everyone begins paying a fair share of the tax load.

She handed the hot potato back to commissioners court saying it is a court project which commissioners hope to have completed by July 1, 1977.

Fun time's here

Would you believe it's almost National Clown Week? Mayor Manly Bryan this week set aside Aug. 1-7 to honor clowns at the request of the Clowns of America. Supervising the signing is Windy, Amarillo president of the local chapter.

Tax case settled

Consumer's Fuel Association of Canyon and the state comptroller's office have settled their months-long disagreement over back sales taxes and a co-op spokesman says farmers throughout the state will share the victory.

Co-op officials agreed to pay $919.19 in back sales taxes, interest and penalties and the state agreed to drop the original $10,000 assessment.

"We want the farmers all over Texas to know we went to battle for them," co-op manager Wes Bourn said. We went to battle with Bob Bullock and he reinterpreted the law.

The legal battle resulted in a change of interpretation of the state law within the comptroller's office that will save farmers and ranchers untold amounts of money, he said.

Last October, Consumers was audited by state officials who assessed more than $10,000 in back sales taxes for goods that should have been taxed and weren't.

The co-op employees interpreted the law to allow all items that would be used in the production of food exempt from sales tax as long as the buyer swore an affidavit certifying the item was for farm use only.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's auditors claimed that sales tax was due on all items that could be put also to non-farm use. The assessment included four years of back sales taxes.

This would have meant that farmers would have to pay sales tax on oil, grease, hand tools and similar expendable materials, Bourn said.

Canyon attorney Jim Brown represented the co-op in the legal fight that concluded Thursday. A hearing had been set in Austin but the co-op accepted the scaled down tax bill.

With the settlement, Brown said that the comptroller's office has changed its interpretation of the tax regulations.

Postal officials will 'talk'

After a 2½ hour discussion with the Postal Department's District Manager in Oklahoma City on Friday, Jim Palmer, local resident reports that a "public meeting will be forthcoming."

Palmer is heading a petition drive among Canyon residents of Fifth Avenue, who are seeking to sway the Postal Department's selection of Block 43 as the ultimate site for a proposed new postal facility.

Calling from Dallas Friday afternoon, Palmer stated that the "Post Office District Manager, Charles Bolar, and I have reached a mutual decision to conduct a public meeting soon for discussion of the site and to consider alternative plans."

Palmer, who planned to contact the Postal Department's real estate officials while in Dallas, said that the public meeting will be held after an appropriate time is set through C.T. Davis of Amarillo.

Davis will be forwarding the public meeting time and site to Lee Roy Moreland, local postmaster, for announcement to the general public soon.

At present, according to Palmer, two sites are being considered for the new postal facility. Both sites #1 and #1-A are within the confines of Block 43, Canyon.

Either site is expected to continue meeting public opposition as some 40 residents along Fifth Avenue feel that the location of such a facility on their tree-lined residential street will be cause for depreciation of their homes and property. They also affirm in their petition that the locating of the postal facility on its proposed site would cause for additional traffic being diverted onto the street.

MARKING THE SITE — Unobtrusive flags dot the boundary site being studied as the future home of a new Canyon Post Office. Background trees on Fifth Avenue are one of the reasons a local petition is circulating in opposition of the proposed site.

Our world

Anger costly emotion

By ANN BROWN

"Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry, for anger resteth in the bosom of fools." (Ecc. 7-9).

We all make fools of ourselves frequently; the majority of us are aware of the fact, and sincerely try to do better.

There is no quicker way to make a fool of one's self than a public display of anger.

It is difficult to keep anger from filling our hearts when we feel we have been abused, but we don't have to spill it for all the world to see.

We can't prevent the birds flying over us, but we don't have to let them build nests in our hair.

The Bible does not say we are fools if we are angry—only if we stay that way.

Anger is as old as the human race. The first man born into the world murdered his brother in a fit of anger inspired by the only emotion uglier than anger: jealousy. (And he had no gun either).

Claudian, the last of the Latin poets, observed around 400 A.D. said that, "When a man thirsts for blood, anything will serve him as a spear."

Some 500 years before Christ, great philosophers decried anger.

Pythagoras said, "Anger begins in folly and ends in repentance."

Cato said, "An angry man opens his mouth and shuts his eyes."

Horace gave this sage advice: "Anger is momentary madness, so control your passion or it will control you."

Solomon expressed his celebrated wisdom in these words: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

It is true that words unspoken are soon forgotten, but once spoken, God Himself cannot erase them.

People are like steel: When they lose their tempers, they become worthless.

It's quite true that every minute you are angry you lose sixty seconds of happiness.

Everyone knows that a fit of anger, jealousy, envy, or fear can in one moment change the best steak, roast, or chicken into a poisonous lump in one's stomach.

One wise man goes immediately and stretches out on the nearest couch if he feels himself becoming angry. When asked if he is tired, he says, "No, I'm not tired. But I'm getting mad, and I've discovered it's hard to get mad lying down."

A little boy took a train trip with his father. The man inadvertently broke a small rule of the railroad, and was unmercifully castigated by the conductor.

The boy was incensed that his father did not knock the fellow down — or at least report him to his superiors. The father smilingly replied, "If a man like that can endure himself all his life, surely I can stand him for five minutes."

When one is in the right, he can afford to keep his temper; when he is in the wrong, he can't afford to lose it. Anger, you know, is only one letter short of danger.

A small, short man was asked by a friend how he always seemed to control his temper. He replied, "When a big man becomes enraged, he may look impressive. But when a little man starts sputtering and fuming, he looks amusing or ridiculous."

But what about righteous indignation?

In a one-room country school, the students were asked to define righteous indignation. One little fellow said, "It's being mad without cussing."

Remember one righteous man became so angry He literally drove the merchants and loan sharks out of the temple.

It's not anger, but hoarding it that makes us foolish—or the silly way we display it.

Anger is a costly emotion. Before indulging in it, be sure you can afford it—and are willing to pay the price.

Texas Triangles

Several tourist groups captured the "branding iron awards" at the past week's performances of the outdoor musical drama "TEXAS."

The recognition momentoes are presented each evening to those travelling the farthest to view the performance.

On July 9 with 1,811 attending Parra Sadallah, Ramy Sadatman and Jamel Vahabli of Iran received the special awards for being from the farthest distance.

An entourage from Sweden received the recognition at the July 10 performance as 2,033 viewed the production.

The July 12 recognitions went to Alison Tjiou-Perth of Australia with 1,670 in the audience.

Cindy Parker from Japan received the July 13 recognition with 1,585 as the attendance count for that evening.

Accepting the award on July 14 was Dr. J.C. Prabhaker of New Delhi, India as 1,261 viewed the "TEXAS" show.

Visiting from South Africa, Julia Ewing received the July 15 awards from among 1,685 show spectators.

CHS pool party "flops"

Friday night's "pool party" for Canyon High School students met with little success as about five students took time to dip in the Conner Park Swimming Pool during the hot early evening.

Meanwhile the playground area adjacent the pool was partially filled with a few students visiting.

After entertaining some 300 plus junior high and high school students in early June, the Summer Recreation Ad Hoc Committee is wondering whether there is a real need for recreational evening activities for students.

The committee will meet to discuss future plans regarding recreational activities for youth on July 29. Parents and students are encouraged to attend.

This week, however, Canyon Junior High School students will have their chance to "dip in the pool" on Friday evening, July 23, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. and success of that particular occasion may well determine future projects of this sort for all of the city's youth.

Canyon's Churchlife

"The Greatest Gift" will be the subject of morning worship today at the First United Pentecostal Church of Canyon and Rev. Calvin Rashall, pastor, will be speaking.

University Church of Christ will be holding a "Men's Breakfast" for the congregation on Thursday, July 22, at the fellowship hall. Coffee serving will begin at 6:30 a.m. with breakfast at 7 o'clock.

"If I Wash Thee Not..." based on John 5:1-9 and John 13:3-8 will be the subject of worship for the First Christian Church today at 10:30 a.m. Chairperson, Louise Russell, will be speaking in absence of the pastor, Rev.

Terry White, who is presently vacationing with his family. Next week Rev. Herb Miller will be guest preacher for the worship services.

A Family Minister's meeting is set for Sunday night, July 18, at Calvary Baptist Church. The meeting will follow the regular evening worship services at 7 o'clock.

Devotional services for La-Casa Canyon Nursing Home will be held at 3 o'clock today with the congregation of the First United Methodist Church in charge.

A Bible Study for the Calvary Baptist Women will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Ora Gaston, 2104 6th Avenue.

United Pentecostal Church congregation members from Canyon will be participating in a section-wide Home Missions service Friday evening at Dumas, Texas.

"A Matter of Death and Life" is the subject of discussion for Senior High United Methodist Youth Fellowship members this evening. The Junior High UMY program will be a discussion titled "Religion and Science." Recreation for the evening will be at the Activities Center of West Texas State University with parents urged to pick up youth by 7:30 p.m.

Elsie Higdon recently attended the Christian Women's Regional Assembly June 25-27 at the Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas. She represented the First Christian Church of Canyon at the meet.

First Presbyterian Church of Canyon will have Ruling Elder Fred Olson filling the pulpit this morning in the absence of Rev. Baldwin J. Stribling, who is on vacation.

Mr. Olson is a former moderator of the Palo Duro Union Presbytery and is currently a member of the coordinating council of the Presbytery and the Round Table of the Synod of Red River of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

B.L. Davis, Associational Missionary, will be speaking for the First Baptist Church of Canyon at morning worship services today. The evening worship will include various testimonies from the Youth Mission group that only recently returned from Las Palomas, Mexico and VBS Tour groups.

A family picnic for the congregation of First Presbyterian Church is planned this evening at 5:30 p.m. at the Blasdel's home. Those attending are asked to provide a picnic dinner for their family as well as a blanket for yard sitting. The evening will be filled with fun and fellowship.

Wade Phillips is the new director for the Baptist Men's Program of First Baptist Church in Canyon. Mr. Phillips and his wife, Marilyn, and their children, Brad and Scott, have been church members since November 1974.

As Baptist Men's Director, he will be directing the men's groups, and various committees concerned with missions, fellowship and the Royal Ambassadors which is a young men's organization for church youths.

Letters to editor

Recreation need cited

Dear Editor:

I would like to share with you and your readers one of the responses the Women's Division of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce received as a result of the Community Attitude Survey.

Mrs. Charlie A. Miller, Jr. has given her permission to share this with you.

"I definitely think there are not adequate recreation facilities for Canyon's children. We NEED desperately a youth-oriented community center with organized and supervised programs on a FREE basis to the participants.

I was a teenager in Canyon with very little entertainment money about ten years ago, and I know there was even a need then.

City officials are not happy with our kids wandering the streets, yet they do not provide any good place for them to socialize after school and in the summer.

Now... I know it's very easy to say 'We have Little League, The Summer Recreation Program, a movie house, a Pizza Hut, and a Sonic Drive-In.' Great, but these places cost money that can add up to a considerable fortune when a teenager is trying to entertain himself.

Unfortunately, remembering my teenage finances, and knowing many Canyon teenagers today, I know that kids do not have enough money to keep themselves occupied.

Can this city of wonderful, warm people really not afford to take care of its children's free time?

Can we better afford to take care of drunken kids, doped-up kids, delinquent kids, vandalized property, stolen property, and 'beer bottles on the Ideal parking lot'? Because all these things are sometimes directly a result of bored kids.

It has been a rare occurrence for me to ever speak to a teenager that likes Canyon. I hear they can't wait to graduate from high school so they can go 'where some action is.' I also know several people from my high school class who thought the same thing, who moved to other places, and then came back to Canyon deliberately as adults to take advantage of a nice, cultural place to raise families.

Is it possible to make our children love this town? Yes, I believe it is, and I believe it could be done by giving them free places to go and staff these places with some of the intelligent, interested, compassionate and understanding people of this community who have shown to relate to teenagers and their numerous problems.

I have very young children that I brought to Canyon to raise, even though my husband drives 65 miles round trip to work each day. I know there are many wonderful advantages to living in Canyon.

I hope that in the next few months or years, someone of importance and prestige in Canyon will make a sincere effort to provide a place of happiness and love in our town for his children and mine."

Editor's Note: The foregoing letter was printed in the Canyon Sunday News on July 13, 1976 — and the need for improved recreational facilities for the city's youth is still being felt.

A group of concerned local citizens and the Canyon News, under the label of the Summer Recreation Ad Hoc Committee, is presently attempting to provide some semblance of activities for the city's youth.

The original committee membership sponsored on June 18 a "Splash Bash" for high school and junior high youths which included both swimming and dance music on the parking lot at the Conner Park pool.

The "Splash Bash" drew an estimated crowd of 350 young people to the park for an evening together and was supervised not only by committee members, and other interested parents but by an off-duty policeman who reported afterwards that "it was a very worthwhile project."

Friday night, July 16, the second attempt at youth oriented recreation activity was held at the Swimming Pool for Canyon High School students including sophomores through seniors.

With "rock-n-roll" music playing adjacent the pool, the students were allowed another chance for socializing in a proper atmosphere. Only five students were participating in the high school evening.

Junior High School students who will be seventh, eighth and ninth graders this fall will get their opportunity to "dip in the pool" and "dance on the side" next Friday evening, July 23. The pool will be open from 7:30 until 10 p.m. with lifeguards on duty, with a concessions area open, and interested parents are invited to join in the sponsorship of the activity.

And the following week on Thursday evening, July 29, members of the Summer Recreation Ad Hoc Committee will convene at 7:30 p.m. in the offices of the Canyon News.

The general discussion that evening will center on the three summertime youth activities and will also include future plans for similar activities by the committee members. Parents, students and other individuals who are interested in providing recreational activities for the city's youth are encouraged to attend the July 29 discussion.

Fire and hire

Letter to the Editor:

So the county is going to hire that boy I spoke about. A good selection.

An administrative assistant to the county commissioners court and taking applications for a county road supervisor. Now that is a cake with the topping all over. The commissioners court has got it made. The only trouble is that we'll be paying the whole lot to do the job of the old commission five or ten years ago did without all this assistance.

Are we that much grown up? Can we foot the bills of their payrolls and still hire road crews, etc., who actually do the work?

The next thing we'll hear the commission will have hired some outfit to be paid $250,000 to re-evaluate the entire county to get more revenue to meet all this added assistance.

I said fire the commission and then hire a boy — not as it is being done.

Legality of new job explored

MEMO
TO: Judge Woody Pond and the Randall County Commissioners Court
FROM: Richard L. Wilcox, Commissioners' Coordinator

Pursuant to your request, I have discussed with the Executive Assistant of the Dallas County Commissioners Court and the Commissioners' Coordinator of Harris County the respective backgrounds and duties of their offices and have obtained the following information.

Mr. Melton of Dallas County has been the Commissioners' "Executive Assistant" since creation of that office approximately four years ago. No written instructions or list of duties have ever been promulgated with respect to his office, the Court generally leaving them to the discretion of Mr. Melton within the broad context of aiding the Court. The functions actually being performed include:

1. Gathering information, on the Executive Assistant's own initiative or in response to specific request of the Court, relating to matters pending before the Court. This would include such information as budget status, gathering of product information where purchase of property or materials is under consideration, statistical data, etc.
2. Liaison between the Court and elected department heads.
3. Review of State legislation enacted or under consideration which may affect Dallas County and the Court.
4. Public relations and press releases from the Court.
5. Coordinating the activities of the several County Boards.

6. All correspondence to and from the Court.
7. Logistics of Court meetings and activities, such as travel, etc.

Mr. Melton stressed that his office differed from a City Manager's in two major respects:

1. A City Manager generally has responsibility and control over the various governmental departments by virtue of the City Charter under which he functions, whereas the County Commissioners are without authority to delegate discretionary functions to the Executive Assistant.
2. The County department heads are generally elected officials and therefore very jealous of their authority for political reasons and unwilling to accept any direction from the Commissioners Court through the Executive Assistant.

Mr. Melton advised that Harris County has a very similar arrangement, with more limited offices in Bexar and Tarrant Counties.

Mr. Raycraft is the "Commissioners' Coordinator" of Harris County, a title which quite accurately describes his function. His office is approximately 1 1/2 years in existence. As in Dallas County, no written guidelines were ever enacted. The functions being performed include:

1. Preparation of agendas, with a brief analysis of each issue to come before the Court being prepared and included in the agenda.
2. Information gathering similar to that done in Dallas County.
3. Recordation and preparation of the Commissioners Court Minutes.
4. Performance of special studies on any matter requested by the Court, especially budget studies, etc.

5. Review and analysis of relevant State legislation as in Dallas County.

The Harris County Commissioners' Coordinator does no public relations work except press briefings on the matters to come before the Court, all other press relations being handled by the Commissioners individually. Nor does he handle Court correspondence.

According to Mr. Raycraft, the idea for a Commissioners' Coordinator has been adopted from large eastern urban counties and has been limited thus far in Texas only to Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant Counties, with the latter two having only a very limited office not relevant to that under consideration in Randall County.

While establishment of a Commissioners' Coordinator position appears proper under an Attorney General's opinion, it also appears that the office can exercise no discretionary authority presently residing in the Commissioners Court. Nor should the Coordinator's duties ever be susceptible to an interpretation by him that they in any way overlap those of any elected department head. It is therefore suggested that whatever duties the Court chooses to assign to its Coordinator be carefully framed and clearly stated in a Resolution of the Court to eliminate any misunderstandings which might otherwise develop.

A copy of Attorney's General Opinion No. M-678 is attached for your review.

Both city and county set closed sessions

County commissioners meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. and city commissioners will meet that night at 7.

The city meeting promises to be brief. The chief item on the agenda is the presentation of the annual audit report by Brown, Graham and Company.

The city commissioners will also rescind a motion closing an alley north of 9th Avenue and will hold an executive session to discuss an appointment to the planning and zoning commission. They are also set to evaluate a city employee in the closed session.

The county commissioners court will also hold an executive session to discuss both the proposed hiring of a coordinator for the court and to discuss hiring a reappraisal firm. The court will close their meeting at 2 p.m.

Also listed on the docket is a request from Mrs. Mary Parker to discuss hiring of county personnel. Kids, Inc. president Jim Simms will be back before the board to ask for an increase in funds from Randall County. He requested a raise from the present allotment of $2,200 a year at last week's court session but Assistant District Attorney Rick Wilcox advised the court that outright contributions were not permitted under the law.

The commissioners asked Wilcox to review the law and advise them of a legal means to contribute.

Simms estimated that slightly more than 50 per cent of the children in Kids Inc. programs are from Randall County. Potter County provides $7,500 a year to the youth program and Amarillo gives $16,000.

The commissioners will also set dates for a budget hearing and a board of equalization.

timidly go in and tell them don't you think you should get somebody to handle these things. He created a job and he knew it was cut and dried," Sherrod said.

There was little in news stories of commissioners court mention of a discussion of a county coordinator. On June 17, in a story written by Wilson, there is a brief report:

"The idea of hiring a county administrator met little enthusiasm from Randall County commissioners who spent Monday continuing examination of 1977 budget proposals.

"The idea was brought up by Commissioner John Fulgenzi after several commissioners noted the lack of a formal policy for setting salaries and granting increases."

On May 2, Wilson wrote an editorial suggesting a county manager:

"The recent resignation of Mrs. Betty Hodges as Randall County auditor opens the door to county commissioners to become masters of their fate."

"While we hate to see Mrs. Hodges go — she's done a good job — the vacancy gives the county commissioners the opportunity to work some said. "I like it out here and I wouldn't want to live in town, but there isn't very much to do here," she said. "I do some crafts to keep busy and, mostly, watch television."

Mrs. Hartnett loves the view from her back yard.

"We had never seen anything like this before we moved here. We stand out here a lot and look out. Or see if we can see any aoudad sheep. We can sometimes," she said.

For Cummins, a bachelor who lives next door, the scenery is more routine. Living along the rim is unremarkable.

"It's just a house," he said. "You get used to the view."

The cabins were built during the Depression, Cummins said, by Civilian Conservation Corps workers.

They have withstood some 40 years of wind and rain along the canyon but lightning is something else. The house is due to be rewired and grounded, Mrs. Hartnett said so when thunderstorms come along, they quickly unplug their electrical appliances.

The Hartnetts will move soon to a new ranch type house being constructed nearby. Their neighbors will swap one of the small, two-room cabins for the vacated larger home.

Drawing increases Schickedanz fund

Tim Schickedanz, a fourth grader at Rex Reeves next fall, pulled the winning ticket in a fund drive that had no losers.

For the drive was organized by WTSU nursing students to benefit the Tim Schickedanz Fund at First National Bank.

Last January, doctors diagnosed Tim's illness as Hodgkin's disease. Since then, the boy has made many trips to Houston for therapy.

He will return in August for more chemotherapy and radiation treatments, his father, Wayne Schickedanz, said.

The winning ticket that Tim pulled from a box belonged to Patsy Britting, an instructor of nursing.

The pen and ink drawing of a windmill was done by Margaret Fletcher, of Canyon, who is a nursing student along with Tim's mother.

Sr. center gets grant

A grant for $1,750 was approved this week for the Canyon Senior Citizens Center.

The money from the Panhandle Regional Office on Aging is to be used for insurance for the center and utility bills.

This is the second PROA grant to the Canyon center. Last year, $2,500 was awarded for remodeling.

The grant is part of a total $95,878 in federal funds issued through the Office on Aging.

Rainfall covers county

Fair to good general rainfall covered most of Randall County Thursday night. The heavier portion of the rainfall seemed to be in the north central portion of the county with amounts on the high side near 1.5 inches. From 0.6 to 0.8 inches were the most commonly reported amounts over Randall County.

Crop and range conditions continue to show the effects of the extended dry spell which started in August of 1975.

Farm and ranch cow-calf operators have been feeding cattle for many months just for maintenance since little or no growth has occurred on ranges and pastures. Some real concern is now being expressed over prospects for hay and bundle feed for the winter season ahead with little forage planting possible.

The irrigated wheat crop was harvested with minor weather loss. Yields of up to sixty bushels per acre have been reported particularly from northwest Randall County irrigated section. Dryland harvest was very sparse with most fields abandoned before harvest.

A small acreage of dryland grain sorghum still has a prospect of making a crop if good rains can be received over the next two months.

Most dryland farmers have not had much harvest since the good wheat crop of 1975. Land preparation for fall wheat is now active with most producers looking toward improving moisture conditions, better moisture for fall wheat seeding and hopeful prospects for wheat pasture.

Scandinavian tourists return

Kristi Quammen was the youngest of a group of 21 persons accompanying Mrs. Martha Goodman on an 18 day trip to Scandinavia June 22 to July 9. The tour group left from Tulsa, Oklahoma and landed at Brussels, Belgium where they ad a city tour and visited the Atomium which was erected for the World's Fair in 1958. It is 334 feet high, made of steel and weighing 2,200 tons. It made up of spheres 59 foot in diameter to look like the atom. They also visited some of the buildings of art left over from the war.

From Brussels they were taken by bus to Amsterdam, Holland where they enjoyed the famous canal ride through the main canals. The canals are used for transportation.

From there they went to the largest flower market in the world. The flowers were in small cars that passed before the buyers and they punched machines to buy for world markets at perhaps 7 cents per dozen for roses, carnations, etc., to be shipped all over the world.

The group then went to Volendam, which is old Holland, that was built up by Dykes. People there still wear the wooden shoes and native dress. They toured a cheese factory there, then crossed the 18 mile dam holding back the North Sea.

Later they went by ferry to Copenhagen, the land of Hans Christian Andersen, and visited with the little Mermaid, which the group saw on the shore.

Denmark, Sweden and Norway were countries of scenic beauty. The tour group visited the castles of each country and other beautiful places. In Oslo they saw the World Olympic Ski jump.

July 4 was a memorable day for the group as they arrived in Nystia which is in Norway. They stayed in a hotel out in the Country. It was in a ski resort area. The group had time to go for a walk and throw snowballs.

In the evening their dinner was ended by three waitresses bringing in a decorated baked Alaska which held shooting Roman candles.

Mrs. Kelton Lee White
nee Marci Denise Eakin

Nuptial services read

First Baptist Church of Brownfield was the setting for the July 16 marriage uniting Miss Marci Denise Eakin and Kelton Lee White.

Ray Pectol, pastor of Parkway Church of Christ in Lubbock, officiated at the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwin Eakin of Brownfield and the son of A.T. White of Marble Falls and Mrs. Walter Carpenter of Sundown, Texas.

A student at West Texas State University, the bride is a university twirler, on the President's honor roll for three semesters, member of the Campus Services and is a studio art major.

The bridegroom formerly attended Lubbock Christian College, was a security officer, cheerleader and vice president of the Koinonia social club, was a Wing Advisor and member of the Meister Singers and Music Masters. He was a biology major and is presently employed with Walter Carpenter Construction Oil Field Service.

After a wedding trip to Galveston, the couple will be establishing their home in Lubbock.

For her wedding, the bride chose an ivory rayon wedding gown featuring bishop sleeves, a high neckline and sheer bodice with panels of Cluny lace above the empire waistline. A three tiered illusion flounce framed the wedding skirt and her fingertip wedding veil was bordered with matching lace. Her bridal bouquet consisted of gardenias, stephanotis, baby's breath and white roses.

The church was decorated with unity candles placed before three candelabra and each side of the altar was highlighted with candelabra and floral arrangements of yellow roses, daisies and baby's breath. Aisle markers were hurricane lamps with greenery accents and yellow satin ribbon.

Leonard Ellington of Brownfield was pianist with Kim Craig of Dumas as flutist. Vocalists were Terry Massie of Lubbock and Angela Tabor of Artesia, New Mexico. Selections presented were If, My Sweet Ever I Saw Your Face, My Sweet Lady, This Guy's In Love and Marci, which was composed by the bride's sister, Melissa, to be played as a flute-piano selection.

Candlelighters were Kathy Roberts of Brownfield and Margie White, the bridegroom's sister, from Sundown, Texas. Mike McNeill of Canyon served as ringbearer and Lisa Black of Brownfield was flower girl.

Attendants to the bride were Rhena Jobe of Seminole as the maid of honor and bridesmaids included Melissa Eakin of Brownfield, sister of the bride, Dewanna Jones of Brownfield, Marsha Baker of West Monroe, Louisiana, Jeanie Massie of Lubbock and Mrs. Bob Rhodes of Yuma, Arizona. The bride attendants wore floorlength gowns of sheer floral organza print in tones of yellow, gray and beige over yellow lining. Ruffled flounces edged the skirts and each wore a beige crocheted picture hat with floral organza trim matching their dresses. They carried nosegays of yellow and white daisies with baby's breath and accenting satin ribbon streamers.

Best man was Grant Standefor of Midland and groomsmen were James Hart of Seagraves, Terry Massie and Mike Washburn, both of Lubbock, Andy Cooper of Canyon and Allon Carpenter of Sundown.

The wedding reception was held in the parlor of the First Baptist Church with guests being received by the newlyweds, their parents and the wedding attendants.

A white eyelet cloth, edged with a wide flounce, and underlaid with a yellow cloth covered the bride's table and was designed by the bride's mother. A central arrangement of yellow roses and white daisies with a silver candelabra and appointments of silver and crystal highlighted the bride's table. The bridegroom's table featured a gold runner and silver appointments.

After dinner they were invited up to the big recreation hall for coffee. There they were surprised by a 30' x 27' x 4' cake lavishly decorated like the flag. It too had candles.

There the group, with a group from Australia spent several delightful hours being led in songs by Donna Wilson who had been the song leader all during the tour.

The group participated in devotion services of their own the two Sundays they were out on tour. The first worship was led by Mrs. William Wimberley of Dawn and the second by Mrs. Martha Goodman — at each Donna Wilson led in music.

Perhaps the most spectacular sights of the tour were the fjords of Norway. The group had a 2 hour steamer ride through a beautiful fjord. They were surrounded by high mountains and tumbling water falls. The most impressive thing about the fjords is the quality of the light, and the resulting colors reflected on the mirror like water.

The Scandinavian tour ended in Bergen, Norway after the usual sightseeing when the group took a steamer for a 23 hour ride to New Castle, England.

There they had a train to London which gave them a bird's eye view of the English countryside with its flowers, sheep and hedge rows for fences.

From London they returned home July 9.

The group going with Mrs. Goodman as tour hostess were Mrs. H.T. Axtell of Colorado, Miss Valice Bryan of Amarillo, Mrs. Henri Mae Christopher of Amarillo, Mrs. Winifred Donnell and daughter Kristi Quammen of Canyon.

Tour guide, Mrs. Goodman, plans to take a group to Europe during June 1977, where they will visit Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, France and England. Anyone interested may contact her at 2418-9th Avenue, Canyon, 655-3412.

Those taking the Scandinavian tour this year were: Mrs. E.E. Henson of Floydada; Mrs. Oscar Hinger of Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones of Hart; Mrs. Helen Madden of Memphis; Mrs. James McNeil of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Bud) Melts of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parker of Lubbock; Mrs. Lois Prichard of Canyon; Mrs. William Wimberley of Dawn; Mrs. T.W. Whigham of Amarillo; Mrs. Wilma Wilcox of Colorado; and Mrs. Donna Wilson of Canyon.

Wedding gifts bestowed for couple's first home

Miss McFarlin is the bride-elect of Russell Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gibbs, 1406 8th Street, Place 36, Canyon.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of apricot and white were used in decorations and refreshments. The table was laden with a white net cloth accented with tiny white satin bows and the centerpiece consisted of an epergne of apricot-tinted daisies and carnations with apricot tapers.

Silver and crystal appointments were used. Punch, cookies and nuts were served by Mrs. Pat Zello, Canyon, aunt of the bride. Miss Kathy Zello, cousin of the bride, attended the bride's register.

Receiving guests, in addition to the bride and Mrs. Posey, were the bride's mother, Mrs. Heiskell, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Gibbs.

Special guests included the bride's sister, Miss Jamie McFarlin of Fritch, and the prospective groom's aunt, Mrs. P.O. Grant of Levelland. A special friend of the bride from Fritch, Mrs. Maxine Hargis, also

Traditional marriage in Georgia

Mrs. Ronald Donald Gipson
nee Sally Jo Stipe

The First Baptist Church of Decatur, Georgia was the setting for the June 12 marriage ceremonies which united Elizabeth Ellen DuVall and David Wayne Low.

Rev. Wallace L. DuVall, father of the bride and associate pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring marriage service. The bride's parents reside in Decatur, Georgia and parents of the bridegroom are Dr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Low of 3302 Linda Lane in Canyon.

The newlyweds are living at 2888 Lakeshore Apartments in Macon, Georgia. The bride, a graduate of Decatur High School, earned her degree at Mercer University in Macon, Georgia and was a member of Kappa Delta Epsilon sorority. She will be teaching special education this fall in the Macon, Georgia school system following graduation in August.

A 1971 graduate of Canyon High School, the bridegroom earned his degree from Texas A&M in December 1975 and is employed as a traffic engineering assistant for the City of Macon, Georgia.

The marriage service was read before a background of greenery highlighted with pyramiding candelabrum. Fronting the arrangement was the kneeling bench and flanking on each side were large baskets of flowers to complete the setting.

Mrs. Margaret Walker, organist, presented the Trumpet Voluntary for the processional with the Wedding March from Mid-Summer Night's Dream as the recessional. She also accompanied the soloist, Miss Becky Thomas, in the presentation of Eternal Life, O, Perfect Love and The Lord's Prayer.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white satin gown with an A-line styled skirt. The fitted bodice featured a high neckline with bandeau collar and lace accents. Wide bands of lace marked the wrists of the full length sleeves and the hemline of the long skirt was edged with matching scalloped lace. Tiny buttons marked the back closure and the dress was extended into a wedding train.

The bridal veil edged with matching lace, featured a formal length sweeping into a long train and was attached to a lace cap. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses highlighted with baby's breath and ivy.

Dresses of delphinium blue quiana trimmed with broad white lace bands at the neckline and midriff were worn by the bridal attendants. They carried nosegay bouquets of mixed summer flowers for the occasion.

Mrs. David DuVall served as the matron of honor and other bridal attendants included Miss Becky DuVall, Mrs. Kathy Martin, Miss Kathy DuVall, Miss Jan Jenkins and Ms. Martha Clough.

Dr. J. Edwin Low of Canyon served as the best man for his son's wedding. Groomsmen included the bride's brothers, Ricky DuVall and David DuVall; the bridegroom's brother, Jonathan Low of Washington, D.C.; Phil Allen, a college friend of the bridegroom from Dallas, Texas; and Steve Cataldi of Canyon. The groomsmen also served as ushers for the ceremony.

Large tables arranged in the shape of a cross were used in the church fellowship hall for the wedding reception which followed the ceremony. The table arrangement was highlighted with tall candelabrum, arrangements of mixed flowers and held the bride's tiered wedding cake, the bridegroom's cake, assorted fruit balls, cheese balls, mints and toasted pecans which were served with a fruit punch.

The bride changed to a white two piece suit trimmed in blue and red stripes for travel to the honeymoon site at Lake Burton in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Northern Georgia.

Double ring vows read

Calvary Baptist Church in Canyon was the setting for the double ring vows which united Miss Sally Jo Stipe and Ronald Donald Gipson in marriage Saturday evening, July 17.

Rev. Ray Cobb of Stinnett officiated at the nuptial services. Mr. and Mrs. James L. Stipe of 1311 Seventh Avenue, Canyon are parents of the bride and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Gipson of Stinnett.

Baskets of white daisies and white gladioli framed the church altar with spiral candelabrum on each side accented with lemon leaves. The setting was accented with an archway of greenery and the unity candle was used during the solemnization of vows.

Prelude selections at the organ included Color My World, For Baby and the Twelfth of Never. Armetha Lindley was organist for the ceremony and the vocal presentation of Whither Thou Goest and the Lord's Prayer were presented by Mrs. Max Stipe.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal gown of white taffeta with a full overlay skirt of Chantilly lace. A ruffle flounce framed the hemline and extended to back fullness forming the wedding train. The dress featured a fitted bodice with sequin trim and was highlighted with a Victorian neckline, leg of mutton sleeves extending to the wrists where they were cuffed and marked with sequins. Her three tiered wedding veil was trimmed with matching lace and the head piece was trimmed with white pearls. A bouquet of white roses with blue carnations in the center and accenting baby's breath was carried by the bride.

Bridal attendants were gowned in floor length gingham dresses and wore white hats as they carried rainbow colored nosegays for the event. Miss Jeania Kaye Woods served as maid of honor and was attired in orchid gingham. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Linda Stipe who wore green gingham and Tracy Stipe who wore yellow gingham. Also attending the bride was Ronda Davis of Happy attired in a blue gingham dress. Flower girl was Tracy Fischbacher of Canyon.

Alan Piper served as best man and groomsmen included Mike Word, Kenny Edwards, Rick Gipson, brother of the bridegroom, and Kevin Locke, the bridegroom's cousin.

Ushering were Grover Brillhart, Kirby Hoffman, Edward Harvell and Billy Max Lowe. The registration book was attended by Miss Brenda Tucker of Amarillo.

A white lace cloth over blue was used at the bride's table for the reception following in fellowship hall. Centering the Miss Loy Yvonne Martin became the bride of William Edward Szydlowski of Canyon, Texas Saturday, July 17, in the chapel of Highland Terrace United Methodist Church in San Antonio, Texas.

Rev. David C. Paul officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The beauty of the chapel was enhanced with an altar piece of white gladioli accented with lavender asters flanked by candelabra entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Hazel Chambers played a medley of organ music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Miss Lucretia Glick as she sang The Wedding Prayer and The Wedding Song.

Miss Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd K. Martin of 5015 David Scott in San Antonio. She is a 1972 honor graduate of Highlands High School in San Antonio where she was a member of the band and Chirores, National Honor Society and Sigma Epsilon. Miss Martin is a past worthy advisor for the Blue Star Assembly #132 Order of the Rainbow Girls and Past Grand Service officer for the Grand Assembly of Rainbow Girls in Texas. A university student at West Texas State University, the bride is a member of Alpha Delta Pi and Theta Gamma Nu sororities.

A 1969 graduate of Canyon High School, the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Szydlowski of Canyon. He formerly attended West Texas State University and is employed with W.D. Walker.

The bride was escorted by her father to the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. She wore an empire style gown of candlelight silk organza with a deep scalloped hem of satin, edged with re-embroidered alencon lace adorned with seed pearls. A cameo necklace, a gift from the bride's grandmother, accented the scoop neckline of the gown. A detachable court train trimmed with matching lace appliques flowed behind the bride. The elbow length veil of candlelight illusion was held by a bandeau of lace and seed pearls.

The bridal attendants wore lavender floor length dresses with empire waist, floral chiffon bodice with puffed sleeves and a scoop neckline trimmed in white lace. Their headpieces were a bandeau of fresh flowers matching their dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of lavender spring flowers. The bridesmaids were Dorothy Szydlowski, cousin of the groom; Rita Jefferson, sister of the bride; Karen Eubanks and Dana Martin. The maid of honor was Gayle DouBrave.

Candlelighters were Mandy Shuler and Cheryl Dickens, both Past Worthy Advisors of Blue Star Assembly No. 132, Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Best man was Rick Davis. Groomsmen were David Martin, brother of the bride; Dave Jefferson, cousin of the bride; Gerald Doran, cousin of the groom; and Ronnie Hagar. Groomsmen also served as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Nagel Hall, adjacent the sanctuary. The bride and groom, assisted by their parents and attendants, received the wedding guests. The guest book was attended by Mandy Shuler and Cheryl Dickens.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin lace appliqued cloth and the cake was a three tiered arrangement decorated with a dove and white rose motif. The table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and lavender candles. Traditional dark cake and coffee were served at the bridegroom's table which was centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets.

After the cutting of the cake, a toast was given by the Best Man, Rick Davis. The groom responded with a toast to his bride.

The couple left for the honeymoon in New Orleans, La. They will reside in Canyon, Texas.

DID YOU FIND all of the garage sales listed in the Canyon News classified pages on Thursday. There were 13 of those "bargain bonanzas" around town and if you made all of them — cost a lot of gas.

Wonder why some church parking lot or empty business lot is not utilized for an end of summer community garage sale where all of those individual sales can be conducted in one site.

The idea of using a parking lot for a community-wide garage sale might be a profitable venture for some organizing club, church group or the Chamber of Commerce. The organizing group could charge a small sum for locating a booth at the site and reap its own profits too!

ROBERT GRIFFIS, SON of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Floyd of Canyon, left this past week for three months of boot camp with the United States Marine Corps in San Diego, California.

Griffis is a spring graduate of Canyon High School. Following his boot camp experience, Griffis will be home for a brief leave before reporting to his assignment.

AT 3 O'CLOCK this afternoon five short films will begin showing in the second floor lecture room of the main building of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum.

The films are free for viewers and will include "The Great Rights", an animated film showing what would happen if the Bill of Rights disappeared from American life. Following the opening film will be two historical accounts, "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" and "Washington Crossing the Delaware."

Other films showing this afternoon will be "The Statue of Liberty" and "Old Glory." The total afternoon entertainment should help America's history come alive for students and parents in this bicentennial year.
